Allies Believed About to Strike In Eastern Mediterranean Area

ISTANBUL, July 24.—(AP)—A growing conviction here yesterday was that the Allies are about to strike in the Eastern Mediterranean area against the possibility of a Russian breakthrough. Balkan unrest appeared to be increasing steadily and it was learned the Germans are taking over complete command of all Greek ports and coastal regions.

From Rumania Marshal Ion Antonescu, leader of the state, sent two divisions to reinforce garrisons in Bucovina, Besarabia and Odessa against the possibility of a Russian breakthrough. In Bulgaria, Sofia police were called out last Tuesday to quell rioting, a recently returned traveller said. Two policemen and several rioters were killed in the fight which was believed to have grown out of pro-Russian demonstrations.

The traveller also said that 200 persons were arrested in Macedonia before Bulgarian Prime Minister Bogdan Philov visited there.

Stalin Declares German Summer Offensive Fails

LONDON, July 24.—(CP)—Premier Joseph Stalin in an order of the day to three of his generals congratulating them on "complete liquidation" of the German July offensive said today that the enemy had suffered 70,000 officers and men killed in the abortive drive.

The order of the day, recorded from the Moscow radio by the Soviet Monitor, said 2,300 enemy tanks were destroyed or disabled and 44 guns, 1,200 planes and more than 5,000 trucks were destroyed from July 5 to July 23 in the fighting about Orel and Kursk.

"Yesterday, July 23, through the successful operations of our troops, complete liquidation of the German July offensive was carried out in the area south of Orel and north of Kursk," said the order of the day addressed to Generals Rokossovsky, Vatutin and Popov.

Ralston Says: Pay of Women In Forces Will Be Increased

OTTAWA, July 24.—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston announced today that the pay of women in the forces is being raised to 80 per cent of that paid men in the same rank, from the present 62 2/3 per cent.

Col. Ralston said the pay increase will be retroactive to July 1.

Entering the services at $1.05 a day, women will receive $1.20 a day at the end of six months.

BOOST TRADES PAY

Other financial benefits for women will include trades pay on the same basis as men and staff and professional pay also on an equivalent basis.

Allowances will be paid to the dependents of women in the services on the same basis as for men in the forces.

In future, a woman in the services married to a man serving in the forces will not be barred from receiving a dependent's allowance from her husband, but the allowance will be paid only if her total income is less than $2,100 annually.

Relieve Shortage Soldiers Will Be Detailed Aid Farmers

OTTAWA, July 24.—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston said today in the commons that plans are being completed for the detailing of men from operational centres and depots to relieve labor shortages in agriculture.

The men detailed will be additional to those granted compassionate leave to engage in agricultural work Col. Ralston said.

The minister gave no indication of how many men are likely to be involved. Plans were not yet completed but details were being announced shortly, he said.

CEILING OF $365

The regulations will be that no pensioner may receive in combined pension and outside income more than $365 a year.

Thus the increased maximum will be of particular benefit to the group having no other source of income.

A number of provinces are already paying supplementary pensions and these need not be disturbed by the increased maximum.

The general terms and conditions under which pensions now payable by the Dominion are paying 75 per cent and the provinces 25 per cent—will not be changed except for appropriate adjustments in regard to the pensionable income.

BLIND ALLOWED MORE

King Declares: May Expect Catania Fall At Any Time

OTTAWA, July 24.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in a war review to the House of Commons that the fall of Catania may be expected at any time.

He said fall of that city, near Mount Etna on the Sicilian east coast and scene of heavy fighting for three days, would be a great blow to the Axis forces towards Messina and the mainland of Italy.

"That retreat," he said, "will have inevitably to the occupation of the whole of Sicily."

STEADY ADVANCE

Following is an extract from the portion of Mr. King's review dealing with the progress of the battle in Sicily:

"Two weeks now have passed since the Allied forces landed in Sicily. The second week of the invasion witnessed a complete retreat of the steady advance of the previous week. Town after town surrendered."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 24—

British warships steamed up the east coast of Sicily today and turned their big guns on German troops holding off Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army on the approaches to Catania, Sicily's second largest port, where the bloodiest fighting of the entire Sicilian campaign was under way. An Allied communique spoke of fierce resistance below Catania.

The American Seventh Army has captured Marsala, westernmost port in Sicily, and is rounding up demoralized Italian troops by the thousands in the western half of the island, the communique announced.

The grand total of prisoners had reached 60,000, it was officially stated.

Canadians Beating Back Panzers

(London sources said that Canadian troops of the Eighth Army were beating back the 15th German panzer division and remnants of the Italian Asietta division in an advance along the road from Nicotia to Leonforte and that a general assault by Montgomery's forces was believed imminent.)

The seizure of Marsala sealed the doom of Trapani, big west coast port 15 miles to the north and the only remaining enemy base of importance in western Sicily. Trapani has a good harbor and controls a network of airfields.

(Axis broadcasts already have reported the evacuation of both Trapani and Marsala, as well as Palermo, which was captured by the Americans on Thursday.)

Manpower Drop Military Draft Age Limits May Be Widened Soon

By R. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, July 24.—Increased changes in selective service administration will bring appointments of five regional directors, it was learned today. At the same time, the age limits for men are expected to be widened in an attempt to overcome a recent decline in army intake of manpower.

These measures will be designed to lighten up manpower controls, which have been under criticism in parliament and which have not been working as well as expected. The army and air force have not been able to get the men they require, while shortages of labor in essential industries, especially those which require able-bodied men, are widespread. It is obvious that the government must take steps to increase its manpower supply.

Progress Slow

Slugging through the hot, dusty heat of Sicily, progress of the Canadians was being necessarily slow, but it was continuing at a steady pace, it was announced today.

ages will produce man more men than the army and air force are getting now is arguable. By lowering the army age for single men to 18½ years, the draft may cut into a man-power supply which the air force has regarded as its own, the boys coming of age each year. The air force, it is believed, still remains a first choice for many young men.

The crisis in air force recruiting is regarded as especially significant, indicating the nation has been scraping the bottom of the manpower barrel. The proposed new administration of Selective Service, with regional directors and advisory committees in west coast, on the prairies, in Ontario, in Quebec, and the Maritimes, will complete the allotment of available man-power to the armed forces, to war industry and to agriculture. These are the big three claimants for able-bodied men, and they have absorbed practically all the available men able to perform hard work.

ALBERTA has just about reached the bottom in its search for single men between the age of 19 and 40, and married men between the ages of 19 and 25, for military services under the National Resources Mobilization Act, it was indicated here today.

report to the reception centre at the Calgary armories. The daily quota of 28 is absorbed by the training centres at Camrose and Grand Prairie.

Officials here stated today that no instructions have yet been received to call up married men for military service beyond the maximum age of 25. A small number in this group is called up monthly.

City Zoo at Borden Park Attracts Thousands of Visitors.

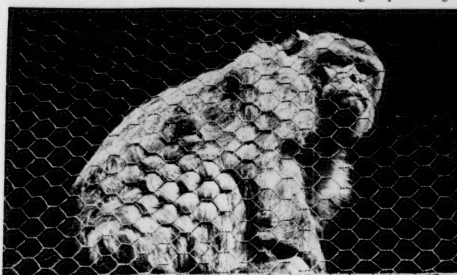

Favorite of all zoo visitors is this bear, always ready to entertain with lumbering antics. Here Mr. Bruin is pictured begging for bread from his admirers.

Borden Park, mecca for thousands of Edmonton citizens and visitors every day, boasts of one of the finest wild-animal exhibits in Canada. Well within the city limits, deer, bear, buffalo, coyotes, and bird-life may be studied by nature lovers, in habitats as close to nature as it is possible to provide.

Alice Stanton, left, from Vancouver Island, and Ruby Pickard, Wetaskiwin, feed the mule deer, so tame it walks right up to strangers to accept tid-bits offered.

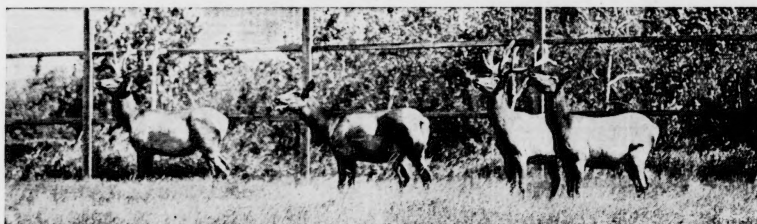

This fellow struck a haughty pose when the cameraman hailed into view. "We monkeys must be very careful of our publicity stunts," this one seems to say.

The buffalo—long since vanished from roaming at large over the western plains, is represented at Borden Park by this fine specimen. Within his corral he stands knee-deep in clover, with no marauding Indians lurking near to turn him into next winter's pemmican.

John and David Christiansen make their acquaintance with the friendly mule deer.

Canada's Air Contribution Draws Praise

By FRANK FLANNERY
OTTAWA, July 24.—(CP)—The R.C.A.F. has just completed a tour through aircraft factories and training establishments of Canada and the United States with Maj. Gen. Harry M. Giles, who was appointed Thursday as chief of staff of the United States air force.

Mr. Christopher was especially interested in training as he was a member of the R.C.A.F. in 1933 at the conference held in 1933 at which the combined air training plan was agreed upon. This was his first chance to see the plan in operation.

"It has been a tremendous satisfaction to me," he said. "It has gone far beyond our expectations."

Asked if the German air force was employing its full strength or building up a reserve for a surprise attack, he said the general feeling in Britain is that the German air force is pretty well stretched by having to operate on three fronts—those of Russia, the Mediterranean and western Europe.

It is known that a larger proportion of German fighter strength has been employed in the need to defend against the bomber offensive from Britain, and it is believed a good deal of factory production has been switched from the offensive to the defensive fighter.

BEGINNING OF END
"That is satisfaction from our point of view," he said. "In fact, you might say it is the beginning of the end."

The Germans, however, were quite capable of applying the same principle but he thought the United Nations forces would be ready.

Jottings From Invasion Front

By ROSS MURRAY
WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 23.—(Delayed)—(CP)—Buttress is a name.

A group of young staff officers on bridge staffs has been doing a magnificent job keeping the Canadian brigades in the line and in their headhunting push into Sicily.

Among the officers on these staffs are Capt. Eric Davidson, Vancouver; Norman Pope, Vancouver; Major Dick Nelson, Winnipeg; Capt. J. P. Murphy, Winnipeg; P. G. McNeill, Vancouver; and Lieut. C. E. Wood, Vancouver.

The Royal Canadian Army Service Corps is being praised by high officers for the way it has been trucking supplies, food and ammunition to the front. Among the R.C.A.S.C. officers, I have seen during the campaign are Maj. Richard Smith, Winnipeg, and Capt. Dave Carter, Vancouver.

The toughest prisoner of war assignment, Sgt. Jack O'Brien, St. John's, Nfld., and seven of his men, had to march nearly 200 miles down the line in fierce heat and dust with 750 prisoners in tow. At the line there were no vehicles available.

With them was Charlie Haines, Winnipeg.

I was talking about the prisoner hauled with an 8th Army colonel—an old war horse who has been through the desert war in Africa—and he told me his story in this brief way:

"Just one of those Italian fellows paid me a compliment this morning by shooting at me twice on the road."

The Italian prisoners finally got their own bus system running in the sector. They did it by taking a truck back to prisoner of war camps more than their guards as they took a few of their own buses and filled the tanks with Italian gasoline. Another Italian bus and a horse man in a scheduled service from forward areas to prisoner of war camps.

The best cook on the front, at least in my opinion, is Sgt. Tom Farrugia, a native of Seattle, who lives in Edmonton for 20 years and now is serving with the Canadians in his second war. He is head cook where I generally find at night and during all this fantastic moving about he always seems to have tea, biscuits and jam ready for us.

Photos Show: Only Military Damage Caused in Rome Raid

Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, July 24.—Photographs of an American air attack on Rome showed damage to military targets but little damage to other property and no damage to property except in the areas surrounding the main target, it was stated authoritatively today.

Damage to the San Lorenzo railway centre, was extremely heavy, including destruction of both tracks and railroad property. Bomb hits were scored on two roundhouses, a large locomotive shop, car sheds at the northwestern end and a car shop.

The immense freight department will burn for 12 hours after the raid. A viaduct has been hit in two places. Damage was observed at industrial and water main nearby were broken, causing the road to flood. Much rolling stock was damaged and derailed at the Littorio railway centre. An fire were burning when the photographs were taken and the east side of the target was obscured by smoke.

A direct hit was scored on a railway bridge and on a building east of the car shop. The locomotive department was damaged severely.

During the attack on the Littorio district, it was observed that several bombs hit the locomotive shed and repair shop at the western end of the tracks and the direct centre. An ammunition train was seen to explode. Bursts were noted southward.

AIRFIELD DAMAGE
Photographs showed the following damage to the airfield in Rome area:
South Camp—Completely unrecognizable. Landing area almost covered by craters. Direct hits scored on a large hangar, barracks, administrative buildings and an ammunition dump. The barracks were still after late Monday and at least 24 aircraft were seen burning.

Littorio—Southern end of the landing area badly cut up by bombs. At least nine aircraft destroyed and one large hangar burned. Another hangar on fire and several small buildings destroyed.

Flood Prevention Grant For Alberta Town Is Refused
OTTAWA, July 24.—(CP)—Works Minister Fournier told the House today that the federal government has refused to grant a $200,000 grant for flood prevention projects on the Highwood river in Alberta for which C. E. Haines (N.D., Maroon) sought a grant of $200,000.

Mr. Haines, in committee of the whole on works department estimates, made a long appeal for federal government expenditures on efforts to stop flooding in the town of High River. He said each spring the community was in danger of property loss and possibly loss of life when the Highwood river broke through its mountain streams, flooded the district.

Mr. Fournier said he was sympathetic but there was no way he could justify an appropriation for a project of this kind.

Canucks Wounded in Battle Tell of Sicily Experiences

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
A BRITISH HOSPITAL, North Africa, July 24.—(CP)—Accounts of personal experiences during the landings in Sicily and the fighting as the Canadians moved inland were given yesterday by some of the wounded soldiers brought to North African hospitals. Generally the Canadians in this hospital had slight wounds from which they will recover to become fighting fit again.

Gen. McKibbin, 22, of Winnipeg, who was with an anti-aircraft battery, said: "On the night of July 14 we had a position on a high point on a road about 15 miles from the beach. Four machine guns opened a cross-fire on us and started my position. We started shooting back with Tommy guns and put the machine gun post out of action. "Then we had a bad break. An enemy shell from a tank landed in our midst, injuring at least 16 men. I was one of them. "One of the wounded with whom I talked is Gen. Arthur MacPhee, 21, Toronto, who received a shrapnel wound in the chest and was put out of action by shrapnel. He landed with an anti-aircraft battery on the first day of the invasion.

LANDING UNEVENTFUL
"The landing was uneventful but by the time we set up our gun positions a few hundred yards from the beach, we had been hit by our own range and we had to start moving again," he said.

"At night we set up a camp. On Monday we set off at 5:30 a.m. and started on a march. A company of United States doctors (ambulance trucks) stopped in pass. They found four Meusebachs killed down at the beach.

"They opened fire killing three of our detachment and wounding several more. Two hospitals were practically smashed and a third had his legs and arms under him. We had to shoot him."

"The British Major, 22, of Vancouver, hit by a truck July 12, said: "I was fired after a 30-mile march and could get no rest. I'd like to get back on my feet and see the rest of the show."

Capt. Sydney Thompson, 28, Salmo, B.C., who commands an infantry assault company, was one of those slightly wounded. He described the landing in Sicily. He said the Canadians approached the beach south of Pechino with a shot being fired.

ENEMY POWERS FIRE
"However, as soon as we began to move, machine guns opened up. As far as I know we had no injured. Our sailor was killed. We got through the harbor with our entanglements and 20 minutes later sent signals to the rest of the battalions."

BREAD RIOTS FLARE
Bread riots have occurred in various cities among them Genoa, Rome and Naples. A mob of about 100 men, armed with stones and bricks, attacked a bakery in Genoa. The bakery was looted and the owner was injured. The mob then moved on to the city market and there they looted and burned down several shops. The police were unable to control the mob and the riots continued for several days.

German Airbases In Crete Raided
NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—The Berlin radio said last night that "strong forces of Allied bombers have attacked German airfields in Crete," the large Greek island south of the Balkans. N.B.C. reported the broadcast.

The Germans claimed 10 Allied planes were brought down by anti-aircraft guns alone. The attack was reported to have been directed against German air bases and the three largest towns in Crete. The damage was called "insignificant."

The Germans said the first enemy aircraft against Crete since the beginning of the invasion of Sicily and said "it obviously was made for the main purpose of striking Axis defenses in Crete." (The report has not been confirmed by an Allied source.)

Canucks in Sicily Are "Ambassadors"

By SCOTT YOUNG
LONDON, July 24.—(CP)—Canadian troops in Sicily were told officially "you are ambassadors" and that to make the invasion most effective they must attempt to make friends with the Italian people by respecting their religion, making sure no harm is done to art treasures and monuments and not making any advances toward Italian women.

A booklet issued to the Canadian troops in Sicily, telling them the men "you will know how to deal with the Italian as a fighting man but your attitude and conduct toward the Italian people can help make the Italian people's resistance shorter the way and determine the results with Italy afterwards."

German Airbases In Crete Raided
NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—The Berlin radio said last night that "strong forces of Allied bombers have attacked German airfields in Crete," the large Greek island south of the Balkans. N.B.C. reported the broadcast.

The Germans claimed 10 Allied planes were brought down by anti-aircraft guns alone. The attack was reported to have been directed against German air bases and the three largest towns in Crete. The damage was called "insignificant."

The Germans said the first enemy aircraft against Crete since the beginning of the invasion of Sicily and said "it obviously was made for the main purpose of striking Axis defenses in Crete." (The report has not been confirmed by an Allied source.)

WOMEN AT WAR WORK
Two million women will go to work against the Axis this year. Two million more will join them next year. The United States can produce 2,000,000 women a year for 10 years, if necessary, to the war production lines just from today's reserve of housewives.

Your Baby

And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The hour at which a mother chooses to do her shopping has a great deal to do with the way her baby behaves. To shop when the child is

If one must suspect a child to be involved in the following three categories around any shop, then he or she cannot sleep an hour when his gone. Runabouts can be seen everywhere, leading bilher and you, thus leading constant admonitions to be good boys and girls and ending up with a child who has been so much harnessed, he anything but a child. The child will want to see all of alluring articles and objects at all hand level.

Give the child a personal interest in the shopping. Let him carry a small bag or basket, or hold the cart or hold the packages to the car or pile in the back of the truck. Giving him something that he waits patiently for the time when it will be his turn to do his job.

The mother is selecting articles from a shelf, let her point them out to the child and allow him to do the picking up. This is the best way to get the child to take only the things we buy.

pay for. Nothing more.

To sing some such nonsense as "To Market, to Market," etc., on the way to the shop, relates the child's activities to these fictional ones and makes them the more interesting.

Mrs. R.M. says her 5½-months-old boy cries every time she goes into store. She finds it very embarrassing to come out to find three or four women trying to quiet him and telling him he shouldn't cry. I have picked him up and spoiled him. He doesn't sleep much in daytime, just about 1½ hours in the cradle and one-half to one hour in the afternoon. He sleeps from 6 to 8.30, though and doesn't cry up

FALL COATS DEFINITELY "MILITARY" THIS YEAR

THE PERSONAL COLUMN

THE Hon. Lucien Maynard and Mrs. Maynard are at Seba Beach where they will spend the summer months at their cottage.

Mrs. Frances Johnston, Highland, has as her guest her mother, Mrs. Grace Reddon, of Portland Ore.

The Experts Say..

OTTAWA, July 24.—(C.P.)—Hints for housewives busy during the summer months, furnished by home economists:

Canning Currants.—Lucky the housewife whose garden boasts a few currant bushes, or who is able to buy either red or black currants. Laura Rogers, who is of the Agricultural Department's consumer section. She suggests that black currant juice should be put up by using its excellence as a source of Vitamin "C," or that thereof be canned with or without sugar.

To make the juice, wash and stem the currants. Measure into preserving kettle, cover, and add two cups water to three cups currants. Bring to a boil and boil five minutes. Strain through a jelly bag, pour into sterilized sealers, partially seal and process in hot water bath at simmering temperature for 30 minutes. Remove from water bath and complete seal.

Valuable Vitamin.—Most garden fruits supply vitamin "C" abundantly at this time of year, but right now currants are at the top of the list. Mrs. Marion Harlow of nutrition services reminds homemakers that 13 cups of this tangy fruit, if dried and sweetened and then served, yields as much vitamin "C" as you'll get from a medium-sized orange.

Lunch Boxes.—Here's a suggestion for a lunch box for war workers: Ice-cold tomato juice, tomato juice and milk, half and half, or fruit juice for the thermos bottle; cold sandwiches. Crisp radishes and onion from the Victory Garden add vitamin and vitamins; and for the next three months there'll be a good variety of fresh fruits that are easy to pack and carry.

Dobbins' Contribution.—Farmers' wives can do their bit for the home by seeing that combings from bunnies' manes and tails are saved in separate bags. The shoddy pads in army tanks in Sicily, cushions in army vehicles in Russia and mattresses of shag bound for Australia are made from the bunnies' manes. Fur is kept cleaner and makes them in munition plants run more smoothly because of it.

From a home's all. Sufficient household for these uses, the Board says, is not only the cook, but the housewife who can make the most of the bunnies' manes.

Fish in the Round.—The home holds no terrors for the housewife who is at one time or another have purchased unfilled fish. The Board learned recently that seafood for Canadian tables could be supplied in much larger quantities if consumers would accept it unfilled.

Shutout of experienced help in casual fish plants allowed in processing and made it impossible to handle as much fish as the fishermen could be bringing ashore. With greater fish production could be increased by buying such fish the housewife is not only helping the supply but also her own pocket.

Save even 15 and 20 cents a pound on every pound of unfilled fish.

Sirloin or Steak.—Italian coupon value charts play no favorites. Sirloin's sirloin or Sunday's steak. It adds up to the same amount of meat, no matter what the coupon.

decided upon. A ration coupon for a pound of sirloin or three quarters of a pound of beefsteak, being in the price of sirloin, is a saving of the price of sirloin.

shoulders with steaming meat, but the virtue of the edible meat could be saved in each.

Housewives Know Nothing of Rationing in Realms of North

By HOPE MORRIS
RATIONING is an alien term to the Yukon. When butter is 25 cents a pound, eggs 15 a dozen, and meat 65 cents to the ounce, pound, one need not fear that the people of those far-flung settlements will be rationed. This is the theory of Mrs. John Shandro, R.N., who has been at Mayo Landing, Yukon, 200 miles north of Whitehorse, for the past three years. She is in Edmonton on Friday by a Bulletin reporter.

Mrs. Shandro had the difficult job of taking care of the health of the people at Mayo Landing. She was the only nurse for 200 miles, and her first aid room situated in the hotel. Here she treated all kinds of ailments single-handed, from the pulling and filling of teeth. When any major cases came in, she simply administered first aid and sent the patient to Dawson City when the plane came in. In the latter part of the summer, she visited twice a week, and quite often military airplanes took a casualty to the hospital.

FROST BITE
She spoke of one old man, 75 years of age, who was sent to Dawson City for hospital treatment because of severe frost bite. He lives 30 miles from Mayo Landing, and is a Bulletin reporter.

Dental Society Holds Banquet

The annually annual banquet and dinner of the Dental Undergraduate Society, University of Alberta, was held in the Macdonald hotel Friday evening when 75 members of the faculty and graduating class were present at the banquet.

M. J. Liskov, as toastmaster, presided over the dinner. Dr. H. J. Fernet presented a toast in the university which was responded to by Dr. Robert Newton, president of the Dental Society. M. Gordon toasted the faculty and Dr. W. Scott Hamilton, head of the school of dentistry, replied. Dr. Fernet proposed a toast in the profession, which was responded to by Dr. P. J. Kendall, president of the Dental Society.

MODERN HOMES
She said that contrary to popular opinion, the homes and people in the Yukon are quite modern. At Mayo there are electric lights, running water, and even heated water, she said. The latest building at Mayo is a hotel built by the Yukon government, and it is a very modern building. The homes are also modern, and the people are well educated.

GUEST SPEAKER
Hon. S. L. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education, was the guest speaker at the banquet. He was introduced by Dr. R. A. Houser, president of the Dental Society. Mr. Low spoke for 15 minutes, and he was very well received.

Capitol Theatre's 11th Annual Rose Show To Be Held on Monday, Tuesday

For the Best Rose

Donated by The Edmonton Bulletin, the perpetual challenge cup will be awarded to the exhibitor of the best rose bloom in the Capitol Theatre's 11th Annual Rose Show, being held in the rotunda of the Capitol Theatre on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Entries for the show close at 10 p.m. tonight. Successive Rose Shows have been productive of two outstanding features, the close keen competition among exhibitors and the uniformly high quality of the blooms. Advance reports indicate the show will equal past years.

Many of Finest Blooms Will Be on Display in Lobby for Two Days

Opportunity of seeing hundreds of the best rose blooms in Edmonton will be provided on Monday and Tuesday, when the flowers will be on display in the rotunda of the Capitol Theatre.

The beautiful blooms are entries in the 11th annual rose show to be sponsored by the theatre. Chief award in the exhibition will be the Impelling Edmonton Bulletin challenge trophy, to be given to the exhibitor of the best rose bloom in the show.

Sponsors of the show are Walter P. Wilson, manager of the Capitol Theatre, and Alfred Pike, well-known city seedman. Mr. Pike is a past president of the Edmonton Horticultural and Vacant Lots Association.

A replica of the Edmonton Bulletin trophy becomes the permanent property of the owner of the prize-winning bloom, while the trophy itself, a perpetual challenge cup, remains in the winner's possession for one year.

ENTRIES CLOSE

Entries for the show close Saturday at 10 p.m. Entry forms must be filled out and in the Capitol Theatre or Pike & Co. offices, 10049 Jasper Avenue, by that time.

This arrangement has been made in order that space may be allotted for exhibitors.

All rose blooms for the show must be at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, July 31, by 12 o'clock noon. Judging will take place in the early afternoon following which all blooms will be on view in the rotunda of the theatre.

WELL KNOWN JUDGE

Well known rose judge, Ernest J. Stone, who is chief gardener of the provincial government, will select the winners of the show.

Indications already point to a larger entry list than in previous years, and Mr. Wilson expects this year's show will exceed its predecessors.

With ample rain and sunshine during the last few weeks, ideal weather conditions have existed for production of "first class" flowers. Classes for awards and the open classes are listed in the show.

which is divided into two groups. Exhibitors who have never won a first prize in a flower show, horticultural show or the Capitol Theatre rose show may compete in the novice class.

Winners at horticultural shows are eligible for the open classes, but novices also enter their blooms in the open classes.

Four competitions will be featured in the novice classes, one for the best collection of three rose blooms, any color, for one rose bloom, red or pink; another for one rose bloom, white or cream; and a fourth for one rose bloom, any other color.

SIX COMPETITIONS

Six competitions are included in the open classes. There are two competitions for collections: one for six rose blooms, any color, and the other for three rose blooms, any color. Four classes are arranged for a single rose, white or cream, pink or rose, red or crimson; and any other color or shade.

The special class is open to all.

Africa Waits

By AHMED ABDULLAH

CHAPTER XVI

LINDEN felt like saying "You're also a stubborn, pigheaded little fool!" But he decided it would hardly be in keeping with his assumed Arab character. Instead he begged her again and again to leave Yehba and she cried, again and again.

Finally, both grew angry. "You have your nerve!" she cried. "Don't you dare interfere in my affairs!"

"I assure you it's nothing personal." "Well—I should hope not!" "Only don't say I didn't warn you after your throat's been cut from ear to ear!"

"After my throat's been cut?" was her maddening reply. "I won't be able to say anything."

"Oh—furious!" "Furious?" she went on, leaning across the table, "you seem to know more about this revolution than I do."

Here was a danger point. He made up his mind to argue no longer.

He could not persuade her to go, unless he told her the whole truth, or at least, more than was said. And that he could not do.

"I am very sorry that I mentioned the matter to you," he informed her. "So am I," she said quite as stiffly.

At the threshold he turned, caught her looking at him from behind, and he turned back.

She looked away quickly. So did he.

Had, just then, an impartial observer, told Linden that the former a hard-bitten barbed-wire and die in the Foreign Legion, had fallen head over heels in love, at first sight like a schoolboy, he would have dismissed it as a lot of bunk.

Yet the fact remained that, at the thought of Nancy Brown's obstinate resolve not to leave Yehba and the realization of what might happen to her, something tore through his heart as with the edge of a dagger.

Therefore, in subconscious self-defense, he put this emotion down to an ordinary feeling of humanity, to the notion, furthermore, that they were both Americans, and he credited the same impersonal reaction with his decision that "Well—if the damned young fool won't look after herself I guess it's up to me to do so."

He would persuade Zaman Khan to remain in Yehba. In case of trouble, the latter could then be taken to his home. There, since the affair was a Muslim, Nancy Brown could be sacrosanct under the laws of Islam.

He also figured out how to approach the other. In the matter, without giving his mission away, the man—he recalled—had an idea that Nancy Brown was a spy. He would play on this belief.

He left the inn, found his friend in the stable yard, grossly insulting the black, tattooed Sudanese rather than he was trying to underplay.

Three pieces of silver I gave," he cried, "and most generously. O creature with pigs ears. And not another will you receive!"

"One more piece, O Protector of the Faithful!"

"No."

"I am a poor man! My seven children are starving! And my parents..."

The African proceeded to relate some amazing, biological details as to the Negro's origin, and the latter, somewhat with rage.

"Hah!" he observed. "The insult into your beard, food and stinking Arabic!"

"Smoking, am I? Allah! And how do you like the smell of my foot?" came Zaman Khan's coarse rejoinder, as, suddenly, he raised an oak like leg and, with superb aim, kicked the other sinfully in the nose.

Wiping the man away, while the African turned to Linden with a happy, childish smile.

"In such a way," he announced proudly, "did I save a silver piece!"

The American drew him to one side.

"Do me a favor?" he asked.

"The I not love you? Name it—and it is mine. And my heart is in it."

"I want you to stay here in Yehba for a while."

"But I am on my way to Libya. I must join my old regiment."

"You haven't been in such a hurry so far, what with your horse trading?"

"I have already arranged for the sale of the mare as a fair profit."

"Then go, stay here for a while. I need your help."

Linden went on to say that he believed Zaman Khan was right in suspecting the girl of being a spy.

So he had decided to get out of town at once and find refuge in the dense jungle the other side of Lake Tzad.

"So at least for a month or two," he wound up, "will you keep close track of her, lest she should..."

"I am a man of deeds, not of words. A thrust of my dagger—and you will not have to run for jungle, nor shall I have to remain here."

"You mean—?"

"You would?"

"I would, sahib! Why trust the living? Why fear the dead?"

"But she's a woman!"

"Is she less dangerous?" inquired Zaman Khan, reasonably enough.

"For being a woman? Would you leave meat on trust with a female jackal more than with a male?"

Alas—as he saw Linden's shocked expression—"I understand!" he laughed triumphantly. "You are a sahib. Thus Allah created you mad. But I, being an Afghan..."
